So tired of the same old,
It feels, I've seen it all before,
Has it been that long?

All over my T.V screen,
And all, the places I don't need to be,
One of them is here.

It must have been the colour of your eyes,
That gave you away and don't you know baby I can your my mind,
And this is what it say's.

Chorus:

It's Too Cold, to walk out the door right now,
But I promise you I'm going to leave, as soon as the sun,
Finds me someone new.

It's Too Cold, to walk out that door.

I know I don't belong here, but I know - Just as well, the misery of being Alone.

You get what you pay for,
You always say; "I told you so.."
So many times before.

I got to town to hang around,
Watching everybody getting down.
And now we both know.

It must have been the colour of your eyes,
That gave you away and don't you know baby I can your my mind,
And this is what it say's.

Chorus:

It's Too Cold, to walk out the door right now,
But I promise you I'm going to leave, as soon as the sun,
Finds me someone new.

It's Too Cold, to walk out that door.

I know I don't belong here, but I know - Just as well, the misery of being Alone.
